Water is Life

The beautiful water, as it flows like,
life, it moves as you move.
Trees making shadows in the water.
It keeps going and never stops.
The birds chirping, the trees
swaying, the children laughing.
The water is made out of your tears, the sand I made out of your fears.
A tree cracked, the water splashed
And a part of your life disappeared.
For your life is the water's and
the water's life is yours.
Children walk in it barefoot
as you look through life.
'Cause your life is the water and the water is life.
